

Testimonials

My work with The Center for Management Excellence has greatly improved my quality of life both personally and in business....[I have] more than doubled my productivity with greater than doubling of gross bills and increase in profits with minimal increase in costs. Customer relations have improved significantly with increase in staff's productivity as well. Greater peace of mind has allowed growth in different directions with ease of releasing business which was not profitable. The company is now beginning its expansion on a nationwide level.

The Center for Management Excellence (CME) played a pivotal role in the recent advancement of my professional life....With their help I was able to clearly and effectively move forward in areas that previously had been blocked. The benefits were immediate and profound: work became fun, I was making more money, my working relationships improved and I had a renewed, more exciting game plan for the future.

I started working with the Center for Management Excellence in the fall of 1999....The legal profession is the ultimate test of a man's patience, confidence, and ability to maintain a healthy balance in life. The Center for Management Excellence has helped me to adapt and see things clearly. This is difficult in a profession where all sides seek the truth, but rarely encounter it....Management is results-oriented....The Center for Management Excellence has helped me become a better manager of my life and my life path. This, in turn, has made me a better...attorney. Their principles are invaluable. I recommend their approach because I have lived their approach.

The Center for Management Excellence and their executive coaching skills have enabled me to experience my business in a completely new way....I have learned to identify my strengths and weakness, as well as those of my staff. We now work as a team, coming from a place of personal empowerment for the betterment of ourselves and those whom we serve. These coaching skills have helped me develop a business that runs at its optimum, and still have time for a personal life. They have enabled me to cut my work hours by over 25% and still receive the benefits of working full time. I would recommend the Center for Management Excellence for anyone who wants to find the balance between running a successful business and maintaining a personal life ... and most of all to decrease the stress and enjoy life from all perspectives.

I am an attorney in Philadelphia. The Center for Management Excellence helped me dig beneath layers of assumptions. This process has helped me enormously in interacting with my clients, partners, spouse and children. The work was not easy but the benefits have been life changing.
